DISRUPTING THE STATUS QUO

Cary Gillis ~ Director of Latin American Missions, Valdosta, GA

In my first year with LAM, the pervasive trend I have witnessed among congregations in our network is a lack of hope. Specifically, there is a lack of hope that they will mature to the point of having elders and becoming self-sufficient. In a general sense, I have seen hopelessness among those who feel disconnected from a brotherhood that has the resources to help them get to a place where they no longer need outside help. For the most part, this hopelessness is among congregations that receive regular monetary support from the United States. While financial assistance is a vital component of missions, money alone is not the solution to bringing congregations into a thriving future. Our goal cannot be sending support to the same congregations indefinitely. This reverts to a type of welfare-missions, in which a congregation has just enough to maintain its existence without ever reaching maturity.

In a recent lesson at Forrest Park, I told the congregation that the long-term goal of LAM should be to work itself out of a job. If the goal of LAM is to exist forever, that means that our goal is for congregations in Latin America to always need to depend on us. It may be a goal that is not achieved until after we are all gone; but it should be our goal. Our short-term goals must be guided by our long-term goals. This begs the question: Are supporting congregations setting short-term and medium-term goals with supported congregations? Do they have a mutual understanding that a healthy partnership must be temporary? This is not because the supporting congregation will abandon the other, but because the supported congregation will have been equipped to stand on their own.

When two congregations decide to partner together, they must sit down and set these kinds of goals. This will require a greater investment from the supporting congregation. But, it is the difference between investing for a handful of years, as opposed to a perpetual budget item. Our goal for a congregation should not be to help them limp along and simply stay in existence. Our goal must be to give them the resources to thrive, grow, and mature to the extent that they can eventually focus outward and help other congregations do the same.

We must think of an investment in missions as being multifaceted. Consider these questions: Does your partnership have a temporary and finite financial plan for growth, rather than one of unending sustenance? Have you set the preacher's salary at a level that his congregation can feasibly begin to meet on their own as you wean them off support? Are you sending support to the congregation, rather than the preacher, so that not one man has financial control? (This is the norm in the U.S.) Have you invested in relationships with them? Do you know the congregation's history, its families, their faith-stories, their spiritual and physical battles, their assorted talents, and areas that need growth? Have you put yourself, your elders, and your deacons at the disposal of this congregation, on call to counsel them as they navigate the challenges that accompany growth? Do you regularly visit this congregation, for the purposes of assessing challenges, conducting evangelistic and benevolent campaigns, and giving instruction and encouragement? Are you training and equipping the men to be able to form their own eldership competently and confidently? Are you instilling in them their responsibility to support themselves financially? When we begin to do all these things (and more!), we will truly begin to give life and hope where there is none. Your short-term goals will always paint the picture of the future. Implementing a measure of intentionality in our missions goals may very well disrupt what has become the status quo in the brotherhood.

BENEVOLENT GIVING

Donna Swilley, LAM Bookkeeper

The question often arises, "What area of Latin American Missions has the greatest need for support?" This is certainly a difficult question to pinpoint as all the areas of the work are worthy and needed. However, there is one area that often does not receive much spotlight, but it truly is an area that must never be overlooked...

BENEVOLENCE.

I think of the command our God has given us in Galatians 6:10, "As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith." Also, of the heart attitude that all Christians must have as shown in Colossians 3:12, "Therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, put on tender mercies, kindness, humility, meekness, longsuffering." Our benevolent giving is a direct reflection of our faith and belief in God, who He is, and recognition of the benevolent grace that He has generously bestowed upon us.

Let me give you a small glimpse into what the LAM Benevolent Fund is and how it works. As you think about your own congregation and community, consider the benevolent requests that come in. Here at Forrest Park, we recently experienced Hurricane Idalia. The needs were great! There were over 440 requests made for assistance. Outside of natural disasters, we all experience unexpected medical needs or emergency expenditures that throw our monthly budgets into disarray. Our brethren in Latin America are the same. Here are two recent examples of how the Benevolent Fund assisted.

Panama: Following a 6.3 magnitude earthquake on April 4th of this year, the home of one of our brethren suffered significant damage. The walls surrounding the bathroom were completely destroyed. The family was making do, but privacy was an issue.

The cost for the repair was $800.00.

Nicaragua: African bee invasion! Imagine finding a colony of African bees living in your home, having invaded your cooking appliances. This happened to one of our brethren. There were no bee removal contractors to call, so the family tried to remove the bees themselves. Unfortunately, they received several stings and required medical help.

The expenses incurred for both medical and appliance replacement was $800.00.

There are many other examples of how this fund has been used over the years: emergency surgeries, medicine, home repairs, food, clothing...the list could go on and on. The needs of our brethren in Latin America are no different to the ones we experience in the States. However, the avenues for funding these emergency expenditures are not as readily available to them as they are to us. I can not help but think of the song, "Count your many blessings, name them one by one." And I will add, "Share your many blessings and see what God has done." Please consider sharing in the needs of others and provide a small measure of comfort to those less fortunate than us.

Doug Daugherty ~ Elder, Forrest Park Church of Christ

Sunday, October 7, 2023, was a special day at Forrest Park! Just as Paul would report to churches of the great things God had done with and through him and his companions (Acts 14:27, 24:4, 21:19), the Eldership set aside that day to focus communication regarding LAM. Specifically, it's goals, efforts, campaigns, and the Great Commission commanded to ALL Christians. Cary Gillis brought lessons during the AM and PM services sharing the results from the campaigns this year as well as the numerous Preacher Training camps conducted by Kirk Brothers in different countries. He challenged us with the opportunities to serve and be a part of the upcoming campaigns in 2024. He also shared the dedication of the teaching staff at the Bible School in Panama as well as the dedication and challenges of the 21 students currently on campus going through the two-year intense program of Biblical studies.

This mission work began 65 years ago and has sent over 600 trained native preachers into their own countries to teach and preach the Gospel! This long period of time also affords the local overseeing Eldership opportunities to assess what is working and what can be done to make LAM even better. Along these lines, Cary discussed a new goal and effort within LAM to find ways to enlist, encourage, and educate state-side congregations in investing in and supporting a congregation in Latin America to grow spiritually, grow elders, and become financially self-sufficient. What better way is there for a congregation to fulfill the Great Commission than for its Eldership and membership to support and grow its own church-plant!

This day was also special because the Elders asked Forrest Park members to double their contribution.....give as you normally would to FP, then purpose and give to LAM the same amount, if possible. The LAM contribution that day was $43,787.45! That was over twice what our average church contribution is for any given Sunday. We want to challenge other elders in other congregations to do the same. It's amazing what Christians are capable of when challenged with "LORD, USE ME!"

Life Lessons

Frank Williams, LAM Fundraiser

My grandson, Brodie, had a project he wanted me to work on with him. So, off we went to Hobby Lobby to buy the necessary supplies. Brodie is very imaginative and was very specific about what he wanted. We loaded the basket and headed to the checkout line to pay. Just as the clerk totaled up the bill, I realized that I had forgotten to bring my wallet. The clerk offered to hold the merchandise until I returned. I explained that I lived over 30 miles away. I was so embarrassed and felt the eyes of everyone in line looking at me. Even worse was the look of disappointment on Brodie's face. The customer behind me quietly said, "I'll take care of it." I told her that she was so kind in offering, but I explained to her that it was too much money. (Yes, it was too much, because I spoil my grandkids!) She instructed the clerk to add her items onto the bill. Again, she said, "I'll take care of it." Not sharing her name with me, so I couldn't pay her back, she said, "Just give it to the church." Now, I am not only embarrassed, but I am humbled. I rarely ask for help since I am one who likes to solve everything by myself. (Prideful?) We thanked her and left the store.

Brodie and I barely spoke on the way home. We were both deeply touched by her kindness. This was one of those "life-lessons" for both of us. This lady paid a debt that at that time, I could not pay. Sound familiar? Jesus Christ paid a debt that I will never be able to repay. In addition, the kind lady suggested that I give that amount to the church. When I carefully consider all that God has done for me, why am I, at times, more concerned about what I can give myself? Joshua reminded God's people of what God had done for them so that they would remain appreciative of Him and live faithful to Him.

As we think about the Gift of God's son, without whom we would perish, let us in turn give generously to advance His kingdom!

Gold, Frankincense, & Myrrh

Frank Williams ~ LAM Fundraiser, Henderson, TN

"When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceedingly great joy. And when they had come into the house, they saw the young Child with Mary His mother, and fell down and worshiped Him. And when they had opened their treasures, they presented gifts to Him: gold, frankincense, and myrrh." (Matt. 2:10-11)

see what God's Word actually says, and if there are any lessons we can learn from it.

Seeing a special star, the wise men traveled to Jerusalem. How far they journeyed is not known, but they would go as far as was needed. Then arriving in Jerusalem, they told Herod,

"We have seen His star." Having been directed to Bethlehem, the star went before them until it came to rest over the place where the Child was. Upon seeing the star again, "They rejoiced with exceedingly great joy." Entering the house where the Child was, they fell down and worshiped Him. Out of their treasures, the men offered gifts of gold, frankincense, and myrrh. Then, listening to a Divine voice in a dream not to go back to Herod, they went home.

I love the Holiday Season! From Thanksgiving to New Year, growing up was a time of family and fun. I vividly remember the decorations, music, and aromas that filled our home. Even today, a pumpkin pie reminds me of my mother's homemade pie crust and the filling she made from a real pumpkin, not a can. I would be remiss if I didn't mention her sweet potato casserole. My sweet wife makes it the same way my mother did. There was also the anticipation of what would be under the tree on Christmas morning. Dad moved our family out of the coal mining town when he went to work for DuPont, so we had more than most. We could expect two or three "good gifts" and the traditional "boring gifts" like clothes and practical stuff. One of my grandmothers always gave us a pair of socks or a handkerchief and my other grandmother gave us $5.00. I would not change a thing...I was so blessed!

We see the giving and receiving of gifts in the history of mankind, too. The earliest record of a gift is found in Genesis 1:29. "And God said, 'See, I have given you every herb that yields seed which is on the face of all the earth, and every tree whose fruit yields seed; to you it shall be for food.'" God is the author and example of giving!

During the holiday season, we often see Nativity displays with Magi bringing gifts to the infant Jesus lying in a manger. Angels revealed the birth of the Savior to the shepherds, and the news of His birth was widely spread. However, there seems to be a lull from the birth of Christ to the events with the Magi. By this time, some may have dismissed the shepherd's story, but not the Magi. This is a beautiful story, but let's examine Matthew 2:1-12 to

Here are a few thoughts I have learned in my readings. First, Joseph and Mary were not wealthy. In fact, they were poor and could only afford turtle doves for sacrifice after the time of Mary's purification. However, the gifts of the Magi should not be considered welfare or a care-package. Acts 17 tells us that God is not served by human hands, as if he needs anything. Jesus would be taken care of by his Father in heaven with or without their gifts. Secondly, this is not a "quid pro quo," or an origination of the so-called prosperity gospel. God cannot be bribed. Deuteronomy 10:17 The Magi expected nothing in return for their gifts. Finally, their joy was in just coming close to Him and demonstrating honor to Him. One article I read said it this way, "They gave Him something that He did not need, and that they might have enjoyed, but He was their treasure, not their things." Isn't that what it means when we give our "gold, frankincense, myrrh" or any other gift we might choose to give to God?

As we close out our giving for the year 2023 and plan our giving in 2024, may we all bow down and desire to be closer to Christ and honor Him with our gifts!

1 Search for Candidates & Approval as Students

First, possible candidates are searched for in the different Latin American countries. The best candidates are contacted to formalize their applications and be ready for selection and approval.

Second, those who have been approved are informed and offered a BSA scholarship to come and study for two years. They gather documents for their immigration, and plane tickets are purchased. Students arrive in Panama the last week of January.

The Second-Year students, as well as the administrative and faculty staff, heartily welcome them. They are placed in their apartments which are furnished with everything they need during their stay. As the families get moved in and settled, Orientation Week begins. At the end of their first week, everyone at the school enjoys a delicious meal to celebrate the new year of studies.

2 Arrival and Stay at the BSA Campus

Each new student receives a computer and five books, including two dictionaries, a Bible concordance, a Bible and general commentaries for the books of the Bible. These tools facilitate the learning process.

The immigration stays for the men and their families, in the case of those married and/or with children, are formalized through attorneys. They also receive support for their health when someone gets sick and it becomes necessary to take them to a clinic, health department, or hospital.

3 Culmination of Studies and Awards

Once the two-year period of Biblical studies is completed, a graduation ceremony is held and traditional celebrations occur. We have a dinner in the graduates' honor which includes their immediate family.

Graduates receive a diploma certificate showing they have completed advanced studies in Bible, theology, and pedagogy. They receive a ring, gifts for the graduates (men and their wives) and their children, and a monetary bonus that can be used to purchase clothing and a toy.

4 Going Home

Passenger tickets for bus or plane are purchased for the students and their families to return home either within the country or abroad. They receive help with incidental expenses for their travel. Then, we say, "Farewell," and send them off at their indicated terminals.

Abigail Gibson ~ Buford, GA

I have traveled out of the country for mission trips many times, but this was my first with Latin American Missions. I learned a lot on this medical campaign...it was my first! On previous missions I had major language barriers and cultural norms that affected the relationship with the people. While the language was a barrier for me in Honduras, we were very thankful to have several translators. The citizens in Honduras were kind and welcoming to everyone.

While the medical team was working at the headquarters in Zambrano, I was tasked with two other adults and several of the teens to go into the community and spread word about Bible classes and the free medical care being given. I experienced being invited into the community's homes for prayers, greetings, talking to strangers along the sidewalks, and learning to play "football" with kids in the community.

One particular event that made a lasting impact on me was seeing one of our teens build a friendship with a boy in the community. As the week went on, he talked to the boy about coming to Bible class or to the medical clinic with his family. We found out that the boy's mother worked throughout the day and could not come to the medical campaign. The teen managed to gather a medical team and took the service to her at work. We were asked to come back hours after to pray with her. The following day, she asked us to come back again, and we ended up having a Bible study with her. This mother and son took time away from their business and lives to stop and learn about Christ. Sometimes, we need this little reminder that everything else can wait for us to focus on God throughout the day. Our spiritual lives matter more!

A lesson I learned was to prioritize spiritual habits in our lives, or we may fade away and be strangers to Christ as this mother was. Our lives can get busy, but never let that take you away from the true reason we are on this earth. I believe that Zambrano, Honduras is in need of Christ's love and help through LAM. It is in a prime area of growth, but there is needed work to have a suitable worship space. During this campaign, we spread the knowledge of a Church of Christ in the area and were able to show Christ's love through the medical service. We saw over a thousand patients and had nearly 240 bible studies!

This wonderful experience taught me how to be the best servant through Christ!

LAM YES II

YES II Campaigns – Cary Gillis will lead these campaigns.

In YES II campaigns, we implement an evangelism plan that consists of dividing the group up into evangelism teams and VBS teams. Everyone on the campaign will have a job that is directly connected to evangelism. The evangelism teams will go throughout the community knocking doors, making contacts, and initiating Bible studies. The VBS teams will teach kids at the church building and possibly in the schools.

The two campaigns in Guacimo, Costa Rica and David, Panama will be in the tropical climate of Central America. The campaign in Arequipa, Peru is at a high elevation in the Andes Mountains.

YES II campaigns have the dual purpose of giving the host congregation an evangelistic injection and equipping the campaigners with the tools and competence to return home as evangelistic leaders. When you go on a YES II campaign, you return home a different person.

Missions & Evangelism Camp – Cary Gillis will be the director.

We have been invited to conduct a session of camp at Backwoods Christian Camp in Lineville, Alabama (situated halfway between Birmingham and Atlanta). During this week, we will expose the campers to the world of missions and teach them how to evangelize.

The goals of this week are to inspire everyone to take ownership of missions and to equip them with the tools and competence to return home as evangelistic leaders. All ages are welcome to come to this session. You can register through the Backwoods Christian Camp website.

Let's GO to Work!

MEDICAL Campaigns – John Farber will lead these campaigns.

The term "Medical Campaign" is used to describe how we generate Bible Study prospects.

Chimbote, Peru and Zambrano, Honduras are evangelistic campaigns that use a medical clinic to share the love of Christ in an effort to open their hearts to Jesus. Every patient is offered a Bible Study at the end of their time in the clinic.

Chimbote is on the Pacific coast north of Lima. We helped plant this congregation in 2019 with hopes of returning in 2020. However the COVID-19 Pandemic made that impossible. It is time for us to go back to Chimbote and finish what we started.

Zambrano is located strategically between the capitol city of Tegucigalpa and the international airport in Comayagua. This area is expected to experience a lot of growth over the next decade. We took a medical campaign to Zambrano in 2023. We are returning to Zambrano to help fortify the church even further.

Only about 10% of the teams are medically licensed professionals. The rest of the team will consist of Bible Study teachers, maintenance crew, and medical support staff.
