Jeff Archey, Fayetteville, TN
International Gospel Hour

To recap and review the year 2020 would be futile other than what we can learn from such a year. From the outset, it seems that rather than return to the normalcy as we remember it, that we should arise and be better—to improve on things and be better at what we do and what we are to be about.

J was greatly encouraged from a discussion with Austin Fowler in hearing how LAM was combining with House to House for a stateside mission effort in Rome, GA. I mentioned to Austin how great it was that while the doors of international campaigns were not opening, that seeking out efforts and the Lord opening doors for the recent campaign in Rome was awesome! The combination of study, training, and going out in the field was well planned. Who knows what other doors may open!

Think about it...in 2020, many preachers implemented "Facebook Live," "ZOOM," "YouTube," and other tools to send out the gospel. Many tuned in to listen that might not have heard the gospel otherwise. Preachers and churches improved at camera work and became creative. Preachers "war rooms" became studios! Some call them offices or studies—the soldier in the army of God needs the war room for strategy sessions in the battle. Addressing the pandemic caused us to move into areas we might not have moved. We became better in proclaiming the gospel!

Jn the New Testament, the apostles and brethren carried forth teaching and preaching the gospel as commanded by our Lord (Matthew 28:18-20; Mark 16:14-20; Luke 24:44-49; John 20:21-23). Jesus said it would start in Jerusalem and go forth...and did it! Conversions in Acts 2; teaching Christ to a lame man in Acts 3; did that not open doors? Fast forward to the persecution pandemic all over Jerusalem. Did it not open doors throughout the world? Ask Philip about that exceptional campaign in Samaria. Then, one of the sweetest one-on-one studies later in Acts 8 saw the baptism of the Eunuch from Ethiopia. How about the home visit of Peter in Acts 10 ... among all those Gentiles? In Acts 16, when a jailer asked what he must do to be saved, Paul and Silas began teaching and converted the whole household ... from washed stripes to washed souls!

When the Lord opened the door, brethren were ready to go through. Open doors may come in some of the most unique ways; but oh, how we can use them with God's help to do great things! When we put our little strength with ALL of our God and Christ, we can make a difference with those open doors.

Keep up the great work!

Ready for the Challenge!

Kirk Brothers, Killen, AL

My first trip to the Bible School of the Americas in Panama was as part of a mission team from the Graymere Church of Christ in 2005. With the exception of the Pandemic year, I have been every year since where I teach and coordinate Leadership classes for the students and local church leaders. Officially, I became a part-time missionary with LAM in 2010, focusing on Future Minister Camps which train young men to lead in the Church and teaching at the Bible School of the Americas. My BSAM courses have been Leadership, Youth and Family Ministry, and the book of Revelation.

The students at BSAM have been amazing over the years. Many young men who attended a Future Minister Camp later became my students at the Bible School. Many graduates have helped to begin and coordinate Future Minister Camps across Latin America. Personally, I attended leadership and ministry training camps years ago while in high school, and it was at one of these camps that I decided to devote my life to preaching the Gospel. I have participated in as many as six camps in a single year. In addition to 23 years of full-time work and another ten years of part-time ministry in local congregations, I taught in the Bible Department for eight years at Freed-Hardeman University. Currently, I am in my fourth year as Professor/President at Heritage Christian University. Also, I have taught courses at the Columbia Bible Institute and Amridge University. Training leaders in the Church is part of my DNA. It is the air that I breathe. Many people have invested in me, and I have the responsibility to pass it on.

So, it was very natural for me to develop a passion for God's work at the Bible School of the Americas. For many years Jack Farber has been a mentor, encourager, and friend to me and countless others. In particular, he has poured his whole heart and life into Latin America and the Bible School. His heart beats with a Latin beat. He has been loved and respected by the students, the staff, the faculty, and their families. The school would not be where it is today without him! His life blood has flowed through the veins of that campus! He is one of a kind, and I smile when I think of the reception that Jack and Nancy will have in heaven one day because of all they have done for the cause of Christ.

As Jack moves toward retirement, the Elders asked if I would consider taking on part of the work. I have a large job at Heritage, so being the main Director of BSAM was not an option. But, that is unnecessary because the school already has an outstanding Director, my friend Agenor Rudas. He will continue to run day to day operations on the campus in Panama. I will serve as the Academic Director and oversee curriculum development, teaching assignments, and continuing education for the professors and alumni. Together, we will work side by side under the direction of the Forrest Park Elders.

Agenor, the faculty, and I have already met by Zoom, and we will continue planning in the coming months as one academic year ends in December and another one begins in February. We are ready to wrestle with the following:

1. What does a student need to know or be prepared for before graduation?
2. What classes will best prepare them for graduation?
3. What classes are our BSAM and U.S. based teachers best qualified to teach?
4. How should we best schedule class rotations?
5. How do we rotate in short courses taught by teachers from the U.S. so that it fits their schedules, but we do not interrupt classes on campus?
6. How can we prepare a continuing education program for our teachers and graduates?
7. How do we strengthen our relationships with our graduates?
8. How do we improve training for students' wives and for potential female students (within the confines of Biblical roles in the church)?

I am very excited about the future. Please keep this great work in your prayers!

NEW HORIZONS ... NEW FACES

Don Garner, Elder, Valdosta, GA

Jack Farber recently announced his retirement from LAM effective December 31, 2021. We all celebrate his and Nancy's 43 years of dedication with Latin American Missions and their decision to retire and move to Jacksonville, FL to live closer to their son, John, and his family. We want to express our sincere appreciation to them for all they have meant to the Lord's work in Latin America. As Jack and Nancy look forward to their retirement years together, the Elders at Forrest Park look forward to NEW HORIZONS and GOSPEL OPPORTUNITIES with the Lord's mission in Latin America.

We are excited that Kirk Brothers, President of Heritage Christian University, has accepted the part time challenge to volunteer his services as Academic Director at the Bible School of the Americas in Panama City, Panama. As he works with Agenor Rudas (BSAM Campus Director) and the school faculty, Kirk has both the training in this arena and a passion for the Great Commission and LAM as he has been directing Future Preacher Training Camps in Latin America for over ten years in 21 different countries. We, the Elders, appreciate so much his skill set and his commitment to this work and being part of our LAM team.

Frank Williams has been added as Director of Development and Fundraising to our LAM staff. Frank's love for the work goes back to the Bob Bryson days. He has proven himself over many years of faithful service in the Lord's Church and the last several months with us with deep conviction to serve the Lord. He has an energetic commitment to untiringly share the Gospel Opportunities found within the LAM umbrella.

We are equally excited that Austin Fowler has accepted the challenge of being

Director of YES II Campaigns and a fundraiser. Austin's love and commitment to the Lord and HIS Great Commission is unparalleled for his age. For years he served with Spencer Broome as his righthand man and special friend on sixteen different YES II campaigns. This Eldership wishes we could clone Austin and all he brings to our LAM Team.

In addition to the above staff, the Elders welcome Kevin Garner, Joe James, and Bart Mizell, Deacons here at Forrest Park, to our TEAM of servant leaders. They have whole heartedly accepted our charge in assisting and promoting Gospel Opportunities in LAM.

All supporters in the LAM team, like yourself, have many things in common, i.e., Faith, God, Lord, Salvation, the Church; but we will place an emphasis on three. First, we all share in the fact that Jesus is our Lord. Second, we share in the personal conviction that Jesus has given the Great Commission to each of us. Third, we all share in the commitment to "GO" as Gospel Opportunities abound in LAM as we train and support preachers throughout Latin America.

We value your continued fellowship in the Lord's work and THANK YOU for your partnership. May God's blessings abound in your life as you bless His work and may He be the One who is glorified from your effort.

It is wonderful to be back in the mission field after a hiatus due to the pandemic. My friend, Chuck Morris, and I started working with Future Minister Camps in the United States and Latin America in January 2010 (Panama). Since that time, God has planted camps in eleven different countries in Latin America and two different locations in Brazil. Mexico is the eleventh country. The other countries are Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Honduras, El Salvador, Guatemala, Dominican Republic, Peru, and Colombia. We tried to start a camp in Mexico last year, but had to cancel because of COVID. Praise the Lord we were able to plant the camp this year!

The camps focus on training young men of ages 12-24 to lead in the church (though we have had younger and much older campers to participate). We work with local Christians to train the campers in leadership, being elders, personal evangelism, creating lessons, leading in worship, and more. We bring very few people from the States with us because our goal is not to do a camp for them but to do it with them and to teach them how to do it on their own. I regularly take experienced brothers with me from other Latin American countries. Francisco González, who teaches at the BSAM in Panama, is helping with the camp in Mexico. Simeon Vazquez and

Rafael Paguaga, also teachers at the school, helped with our camp in the Dominican Republic. We work with each country for a year or two and then move on to another country.

Campers in Mexico prepared lessons from characters in the books of Luke and Acts. We had 27 campers this time. An added pleasure was two of the leaders in the camp, Domingo Pérez and Jaime Montejo, were former students at BSAM that I had the pleasure of teaching. The local Christians, including preachers, Church leaders, and an army of ladies who prepare food and so much more, sacrifice and work tirelessly to make the camp possible. The boys sleep on the floor in the church building or in hammocks in sweltering Mexican jungle. They are completely committed to being leaders for the Lord.

Brahn is a 14 year old boy who lives about 2 1/2 hours away from Palenque. His parents were helping with the camp. He was not planning to attend until Chuck Morris encouraged him. It is hard to say, "No," to Chuck. The boys get up each night to practice speaking. Brahn was so scared to get up the first night that he started crying. The other boys quickly jumped into encouragement mode. He spoke in front of the group the next day like he had always been doing it. It is amazing what a little training and encouragement can do! Heaven only knows how the Lord might use him in the future. Thank you to all the churches and individuals who make this work possible. To help, you can send funds to LAM and add a note saying it is for the Future Minister Camps.

¡Dios te bendiga! God bless you!

Why I Knock on Doors

Araceli Ledezma, Bridge Avenue Church of Christ, Weslaco, TX

It was early 2016 when we received a phone call from my good friend, Miranda Smith. She had been on a mission trip with LAM to La Fortuna, Costa Rica in 2015 and thought about us the whole time she was there. My congregation is on the Mexican border and we have many bilingual members. Miranda was calling to invite us to Central America because she knew that being bilingual would make us great assets. She didn't know that I had always dreamed of going on a mission trip but didn't know where or how to get started. With the support from my congregation, family, and friends, I have now been on four LAM campaigns.

I love this work because I love people. This makes these challenging campaigns easy. My primary work is translating during Bible studies. When we're door knocking and I first meet someone, I want them to know how excited we are to meet them. Even though I'm a foreigner, doors easily open to form relationships and share the Gospel, because I speak their language. Notably, this opened the door to have Bible studies with our bus drivers from Costa Rica and Peru. During the first couple of days of every trip, there is a friendly rivalry between the evangelism teams to see who can get a Bible study with their bus driver first.

It is wonderful to meet brothers and sisters from the U.S. and foreign countries and work together for a week with a shared purpose...to spread the Gospel. While each trip is a little different, every campaign carries an eternal weight of importance and is immensely enriching to everyone involved. I have met some of the best people in the world on these trips. On my first trip to Nicaragua, I met a family that wanted to study with us. We walked through a street-turned-river to get to their house.

We still keep in touch. On the second trip to Nicaragua, I became good friends with a local preacher's wife. She is a sweet sister whom I cherish very much. On my third trip, the church in Costa Rica spoiled us with their hospitality as we worked long days, sometimes having to walk in the rain. In Peru, I met the sweetest brothers and sisters in the faith, all hard workers for the Kingdom.

This work is life-changing, especially to young people. It opens their eyes to see their true purpose in life as Christ-followers. I have been blessed to have my son, Marc, join me on the mission trips. I know it has impacted his life. If you know me, then I have probably already invited you to join us on the next campaign. I started going to church because someone knocked on my door to share the Gospel when I was ten. My life was changed forever. We continue to go door-knocking regularly. That's why I knock on doors!

The American

Rob Whitacre

The Church of Christ in the United States is dying. Unless there is a cultural shift among congregations to focus on local evangelism, there will be no congregations for our children and grandchildren to attend. Brethren line up for foreign mission trips and spend countless dollars to go overseas, but when faced with evangelizing their local communities, workers are few and resources are scarce. Brethren, this must change!

Beginning on July 24th, we conducted our first American Mission Campaign, a combined work of Latin American Missions and the House to House/Heart to Heart School of Evangelism. Our goal was to duplicate in the U.S. what we do all over the world. We assembled a team of Christians to work for six days in Rome, GA to train workers and teach the gospel. When evangelizing in foreign countries, a simple invitation to a tent meeting can produce dozens of contacts. This does not work in the United States. Therefore, we attempted a different approach.

First, we armed every participant with the tools needed to effectively evangelize the lost. We cannot expect our soldiers to fight unarmed without the weapons needed to win. Contributions made by congregations and individuals enabled us to provide every worker with an AMC backpack full of door hangers, tracts, contact cards, study methods, House to House/Heart to Heart, bookmarks, and training manuals/books.

Second, we spent almost 25 hours in training Christians how to evangelize. Most congregations have an army of untrained soldiers. Some still try to conduct campaigns like churches did during the 1950-60's, but no training is given as Christians are sent to the streets with meeting flyers and Bibles. This is a failing model in 2021, and it results in discouragement. AMC has an adaptive approach to our changing culture that has resulted in a 35 percent success rate for gaining a contact for return visits.

Third, we set realistic goals. Many local campaign efforts end in "failure" because the expectations are not Biblical. We do not come to baptize but to teach. The Great Commission is a reach and teach order. Jesus said we must look up as the fields are white unto harvest. (John 4:35) Bringing the love of the Church of Christ to every door in the community will bring results.

Fourth, we followed the teachings of Christ by forming contacts using kindness, gentleness, and love to till the soils of the heart. We bring these gifts in the name of the Lord to show compassion to those in need and to offer healing to those who hurt. By using the New Testament tools of benevolence, prayer, and simple gospel teaching, we appeal to those who are looking for answers to religious hypocrisy and division.

Fifth, we practice what we preach! Since beginning HTHSOE three years ago, we have recorded almost 900 baptisms. We take the working model of the New Testament and demonstrate its power by practicing it all over the United States. We send out weekly reports (Reaching the Lost) to encourage and keep everyone accountable. We seek cultural changes that produce lasting results.

In Rome, Georgia, the spirit of evangelism was evident as an army of Christian soldiers were trained and hundreds of contacts were made for congregations to prospect and engage in Bible study. On Sunday we baptized two who were visiting. Thousands of doors were knocked. The United States of America is a fertile field, but Satan has convinced us that America cannot be reached, so we do not try. Satan lost this battle as we fought for the Lord.

Mission Field

Because of COVID-19, there were no mission trips to Latin America this summer. However, LAM partnered with Rob Whitacre and the House to House School of Evangelism to create the American Mission Campaign or AMC. To simply report, American Mission Campaign was a huge success! It was both a door knocking campaign and an evangelism seminar. All week, participants knocked doors during the mornings, not to set up quick Bible studies like we do in Latin America, but with a sole purpose of getting a contact. Once we got a contact, we then turned it into a prospect by building a relationship with them. Hopefully, that prospect will lead to a Bible study.

During the first two days, we door knocked in areas where the Oak Hill church was already sending copies of House to House. There was a lot of good feedback about the mailer. On the third day, we used the benevolence method. We simply asked people how we could help them. A lot of people asked for help with their yard work, providing food, or helping with different projects around the house. Using this method, we made a lot of great contacts. On the last day of door knocking we handed out new mover baskets to newcomers in the Rome area. We used the "How can I pray for you?" method at the door. It was great to see that door knocking still works in America!

In the afternoons, Rob trained everyone with successful evangelism strategies. The lessons taught how to use Back to the Bible and Believe the Bible. He also taught us how to answer difficult questions about family, baptism, and instrumental music. Everyone who attended this week was encouraged, edified, and went home with a new outlook on evangelism.

Evangelism still works here in our own country. The key is to have the proper strategies, realistic expectations, and be willing to put it to practice. This is just the beginning of American Mission Campaigns, and we cannot be more excited for the future!

Where Are They Now?

Rafael Paguaga, Bible School of the Americas, Panama

I was born the youngest son of an evangelist and a primary school teacher in Honduras. Amazingly, if it had not been for one of LAM's medical campaigns during the early 1990s, my parents probably would have never met. Jack Farber led that medical campaign and later became the Director of the Bible School of the Americas in Panama where I trained to preach. But above all else, it is our God behind all of these events that amazes me. The One who knew me before I was born and knows the day I will leave this body...the almighty and sovereign God in whom I stand in awe because of His inscrutable wisdom and knowledge. I stand in awe because God allowed me to grow up a child surrounded by His Word. I stand in awe for He granted me the gift of watching my earthly father stand up to preach His word for years. I-STAND-IN-AWE!

As I write these words, I think of His grace. For, by His grace I grew up and was baptized. I was given the privilege of attending the Future Preachers Training Camp in Honduras. I lifted up the torch that Ever Gallo, a humble servant of God, challenged all of us to raise with our own hands if we decided to become preachers of the Gospel. That very night, by His grace, I chose to preach for my whole life. It has been eleven years, since I preached my first sermon. It was also by His grace, that I met Gaby, my wife, with whom I cherished the dream of studying at the Bible School of Americas together.

How could I not be thankful for His immeasurable Grace? In the lowest moments of my life and in those we call glorious moments, it has been Him and His grace. Today, I can say I have trained numerous young men through the Minister Training Camps. Thanks to the Bible School, I have learned to share the Good News of Jesus Christ from the Kuna Yala Islands to the highest hill of Darien. I have preached in the mountains of Bocas del Toro and in the colossal buildings of Panama City. As a teacher at the BSAM, I have taught native students from different cultures, languages, and backgrounds about the riches of His Glory. Through His grace I serve along the sides of many great Christian men who love God. As I look forward to greater things, challenges, and serving within the Kingdom, I will continue to stand in awe of our Sovereign and Gracious God!
